Re: Reporting tract placements

Dear Brothers:

Effective immediately, publishers should begin reporting the number of tracts placed in the ministry each month. When filling out your personal Field Service Report (S-4), the number of tracts placed should be added to the number of brochures placed. That one total should be written in the “Booklets/Brochures” column on the report. In the future, this form will be revised to reflect this adjustment. Please keep in mind that your report of tract placements should include copies of Kingdom News No. 38, annual Memorial invitations, district convention handbills, and other tracts.

We are also pleased to announce that a four-minute video entitled “Why Study the Bible?” will be released on jw.org in many languages on November 18, 2013. It is designed to motivate interested persons to accept our offer of a free Bible study. The new video will be accessible to the public by clicking the “Request a Bible Study” link at the bottom of the home page on jw.org. The video will also be available to many who read Kingdom News No. 38. How so? If the video is advertised on the site in the language of the tract, a person who scans the QR (quick response) code will immediately be taken to the Web page containing the video. Otherwise, he will be taken to the home page of jw.org. Therefore, we encourage you to point out the QR code on the back of the tract and encourage the person to scan it with his mobile device.

It is our hope that these adjustments will motivate all of us to reach more people with the good news by making effective use of our tracts and the jw.org Web site!—Eccl. 11:6.

Your brothers,

of Jehovah's Witnesses*
