Re: Awake! in French to be nested inside the public edition of The Watchtower in Haitian Creole

Dear Brothers:

An adjustment is being made to the way congregations will receive the public edition of The Watchtower in Haitian Creole. Currently, two copies of the magazine are nested together when sent to congregations. Also, the Awake! in French has only been provided nested inside the public edition of The Watchtower in French. Beginning with the May 2014 issues, the Awake! in French will be nested inside the public edition of The Watchtower in Haitian Creole. Congregations may continue to request copies of the Awake! in French nested inside the public edition of The Watchtower in French.

If your congregation currently has any standing requests for the public edition of The Watchtower in Haitian Creole, you will automatically begin receiving the Awake! in French nested inside. Therefore, we ask that you please reevaluate any standing requests your congregation may have for the Awake! and public edition of The Watchtower in French, since it is likely that they will need to be reduced. Adjustments to standing requests should be made using jw.org.

If your congregation meetings are conducted in Haitian Creole or if your congregation uses a large quantity of Haitian Creole magazines in the ministry, we ask that you please schedule an announcement to be made at the Service Meeting regarding this new way that the Haitian Creole magazines will be received. This announcement should be made close to the time that the May 2014 issues arrive in your congregation, preferably just before they are set out on the counter for the publishers to obtain their personal copies. The brother giving the announcement should demonstrate how the magazines can be presented in the ministry. The Awake! magazine can be pulled out of The Watchtower magazine completely, or it can be partially pulled out so that it is evident to the householder that he is receiving both The Watchtower and Awake! magazines. Initially, group overseers should regularly mention this adjustment at the meetings for field service. The magazine servant can also provide kindly reminders when publishers are obtaining their magazines from the counter at the Kingdom Hall.

We appreciate your careful attention to this adjustment so that all will make good use of the printed editions of the magazines. Please be assured of our warm Christian love and greetings.

Your brothers,

Christian Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses
